

Claire Baulieu has studied ballet and jazz techniques in France, as well as at the Ailey School in the US, which she attended as a Fullbright Scholar. In 1984 she began teaching a modern dance program at the Paris Opera Ballet School, and in 1986 she became Artistic Director of the Bagnolet Conservatory of Dance. She currently continues teaching at the Paris Opera School and around the world, also conducting dance competitions and examinations on behalf of the French Ministry of Culture. Ms. Baulieu has been a regular judge and master teacher during the Youth America Grand Prix International and US Regional audition tours.
